A DINNER AND A KISS.

"I have brought your dinner, father," The blacksmith's daughter said. As she took from her arm a kettle And lifted its shining lid. "There's not any pie or pudding. So I will give you this," And upon his toll-worn forehead She left the childish kiss.

The blacksmith took off his apron And dined in happy mood Wondering much at the savor Hid in his humble food; While all about him were visions Full of prophetic bliss; But he never thought of magic In his little daughter's kiss.

While she with her kettle swinging, Merrily trudged away. Stopping at sight of a squirrel, Catching some wild bird's lay. And I thought how many a shadow Of life and fate we would miss, If always our frugal dinners Were seasoned with a kiss.
